To Whom It May Concern,

For the past year, David Duarte has worked as the Marketing Director here at BrandRep, and has proven himself to be a dedicated leader, team member and determined problem solver.

He quickly adapted and integrated his skill sets across our systems and infrastructure. David utilized his knowledge and experience to optimize efficiencies within the content department, and assembled a new marketing team from the ground up.

David has a strong understanding in a wide variety of both technical and creative techniques and technical methodologies. He is more than capable of assimilating and taking full ownership of everything he is tasked with.

I am confident that he would excel in any management position in digital marketing, design and development, or other creative or technical role.

With his outstanding communication skills and positive, uplifting attitude, David would be an invaluable asset to any organization or team.
